Sri Aurobindo Ghosh :-

Aurobindo Ghosh is considered one of the radical leaders. Aurobindo had formed his personality by combining the Western ideas of Europe and oriental ideas of Asia. He promoted the ideas of radical nationalism through newspaper named Karmayogi, Mataran, Yugatantra and promoted the awareness of people.

Brief introduction of Aurobindo :

Aurobindo was born on August 15, 1872 in Calcutta. His father sent Aurobindo like his other sons to England for western education. Aurobindo studied in Manchester, London and Cambridge. He also competed in Civil Service exam. However, fed up with attitude of British towards the Indians, decided not to serve under them and failed the equestrian stage themselves.

In the meantime, Aurobindo's father sowed nationalism in his son, who was studying in England, through letters convincing him of British policies in India. Along with this, while in Cambridge, Aurobindo worked as the secretary of an organization working for Indian emancipation called Indian Mazhis. He also founded an underground organization called Lotus and Dagger.

* Contribution to Extremist Nationalism : —

Aurobindo's nationalism was deeply influenced by the ideas of Bankim Chandra. Radical elements can be discerned in Aurobindo's nationalist thought as distinct from the contemporary conservative nationalists.

1) Proposition of Spiritual Basis :

Other criticized the backwardness of the constitutional methods followed by Contemporary Indian National Congress leaders, liberally calling the backwardness the filth of patriots.

2) Importance for Comprehensive Nationalism :

Aurobindo did not advocate a limited form of nationalism like limited but advocated comprehensive form of nationalism. In his view not only political and economic interests but also other factors are assimilated in nationalism. Aurobindo advocated the thoughts of comprehensive nationalism with social, cultural and spiritual dimensions.

3) Support for Self-Govt. :

He believed that a national govt. was necessary to re-establish the real strength and potential of a nation in the midst of colonial influence. Thus, they did not agree to the limited demands of progressives like reform of legislature, Separation of judiciary from executive and Indianisation of the Civil Service. He demanded for Swaraj.

4) Encouraging Cultural Revival :

Aurobindo believed that cultural factors could unite Indians on the basis of their heritage and traditions. He believed that cultural factors were instrumental in forging national identity. Against this background, cultural revivalism was encouraged and radical nationalistic thoughts can be identified in his stance.

5) Interest in negative protest :

Aurobindo believed that prayer, delegation, Constitutional protest could not take the nation closer to freedom. Although not directly involved, he was indirectly involved in the violent protests of extremists.

Aurobindo's innovative nationalist outlook can be convinced of the points mentioned above. Critics have identified many faults in his efforts of Aurobindo. His thoughts were to provide a spiritual basis for overall nationalism without limiting it to politics.
